SFLT Trust Photography Competition - May/June

The First Buds of Spring – Getting Close to Nature

The world looks far more interesting when you look at it in new, unusual or different ways. Look at the next 3 slides for some examples of photographs that explore close up photography techniques to give you some ideas.

Springtime is often associated with new growth, new beginnings and change; and is often a very positive sign that the cold darkness of Winter is ending.

Go out for a walk, or look around your garden and try and shoot your own set of photographs on your cameras/phones that explore the theme:

The First Buds of Spring

Use your phone camera's own editing software, crop and refine your best chosen single image so it is as visually beautiful/interesting/colourful as possible.

Email your photographic entries as attachments with your Name, Year, Class and School to: pblackburn@sflt.org.uk before Friday June 17th 2022 – winners will be announced on Thursday 30th June 2022. Prizes and certificates to follow.

Getting close to Nature with your camera

'Recipe': respect, enjoyment, cooperation, independence, perseverance and excellence

Use your phone camera on macro or close up setting if possible and consider your vantage point (the angle you shoot from)

Tips:

- Try and shoot with your phone camera on floor – 'ants eye view' (very low camera angle)
- Shoot with your camera very close to the object being explored (Macro)
- Watch out that your own shadow doesn't fall on the object you are photographing (check where the sun is)
- Try and capture 10 different images and then select your favourite image to edit in your camera/phone editing software
- Think how you might crop the image to remove distracting elements to get closer to the main subject if needed.
- You might enhance the colour to make it more saturated.
- You might adjust the exposure to get the tonal contrast stronger.
